Hello,

My name is Dr. Richard Bergeron, President and Founder of the Ottawa Memory Clinic. I have devoted my entire career to the fight against Alzheimer's disease (AD) both as a clinician and in clinical research. In Canada alone AD affects the lives of 1.1 million people; those suffering with the disease and loved ones tasked with caring for them. This number is on the rise and simply put, I believe that AD is a problem too great to ignore.

It is no secret that despite tireless efforts from world class scientists, limited treatment options are available. Still, there is hope and I remain optimistic. Scientists are making progress to understand more about the cause of AD and what puts someone at risk. As AD is a disease of aging, the predominant risk factor is age. There are also a number of key genetic factors that play a major role in the development of AD.

Our main goal at the Ottawa Memory Clinic, is to be a community resource providing memory assessments, and the opportunity to participate in various AD research studies. We are a team of healthcare professionals, dedicated to the highest standard of patient care, and clinical research. We, are hopeful that our work can contribute to important research and help discover new treatments to prevent or cure Alzheimer's disease. We can't fight AD alone. We need your help so that future generations won't have to worry or carry the burden of AD.

We are actively seeking volunteers who will consider contributing to AD research. By visiting the Ottawa Memory Clinic you can get a free non-invasive assessment to determine your risk factors for AD.

If you, or anyone you may know are interested in participating in one of the clinical trials that are available at our facility, or if you would like to receive more information, please contact us by phone at (613) 702-1000, or by email: info@thememoryclinic.ca, for our site in Ottawa and (819) 510- 1000 or at @info@cliniquememoire.ca, for our site in Gatineau. All of our services are offered free of charge, and all information remains entirely confidential.

Sincerely,

Dr. Richard Bergeron M.D., Ph.D., FRCPC
